FILE:

This morning, Joe and I met with [] at the Carroll Arms for approximately two hours. George Clarke from the CIA's General Counsel's staff was present for the last fifteen minutes of the interview.

Background:

1948-51 - Assistant to the [] -
 1951-54 - Chief Rumanian Desk
 1954-58 - Chief of Operations Against Communist Areas (Eastern Bloc) - (Operations from [] - stationed in [] 15-16)
 1958-61 - []
 1961-62 - Special Assistant to Helms
 1962-63 - National War College (June 1962 - July 1963)
 1963-64 - Helms' Special Assistant
 1965-66 - [] 15-6
 1966-69 - [] 12-21
 1969-73 - Chief of Operational Services - Chief of Staff in DDP. (Director Clandestine Services)
 1973 - Chief Career Management Personnel
 1973-74 - Chief Plans & Programs for Directorate

Interview Summary:

Bissell "out of the blue" asked [] to read and comment upon Zoogby's Cuban operations paper. [] told Bissell that the paper/proposals "stunk" (. . . "much like another Bay of Pigs"). Apparently, Helms also read and liked [] comments. After Bissell "left", Helms requested that [] come on board as his staff assistant.

[] stressed that he was not in the operational line of command -- "I provided an interface for intelligence information." A typical day in [] life:

-- Screening cable traffic (7 - 9 a.m.). Primarily cables relating to positive intelligence, to prepare Helms for his daily 9 a.m. hour-long meeting with DCI McCone.

FILE:

-- Prepared a daily briefing for the White House on Cuban intelligence.

-- Preparing review of books such as "The Invisible Government" and damage reports (i.e., reports setting forth what sensitive information exposed by book).

[] stressed that he was "out of touch with the day-to-day operations of Task Force W". However, he believes that Harvey kept Helms fully briefed.

Harvey, in [] own words, was "not an ordinary man", . . . "egocentric", "bombastic", "one of the strongest proponents of compartmentalization and need to know". In addition, Harvey had a law degree and a successful FBI stint prior to joining the Agency.

[] noted Harvey's intense loyalty to "his people" (including Helms and []). However, [] is sure that even with these people, Harvey was likely to have been extremely close-mouthed.
